Title of project:

Jungfrauojch – greifbarer Ausblick

Project leader and team:

Anne Kockelkorn (Assistent, gta – ETH Zürich), Alexander Bürgi, Seraina Jenal, Georg Krummenacher, Michèle Skarpetowski

Project description:

The physical dimension is the divergence between the construct architecture and the reality. The understanding of a place is only possible by positioning the body in relation to the environment.

- a) Descriptive drawing analysis of the Jungfrauojch mountain station, focussing on the tourism infrastructure.
- b) Investigation of the social behaviour of the tourists, their bodily experience and their market driven expectations in relation to the built artefact of the mountain station.

Key words:

Architecture, tourism infrastructure, bodily experience
